1. "History of State and Law of Foreign Countries" as academic subject.

The history of the state and law of foreign countries, as a component of the general history of the state and law, is a basic scientific and educational discipline of a historical, theoretical and legal profile. The history of the state and law of foreign countries has as its subject the study of the emergence, development and changes of types and forms of the state and law of specific foreign countries of the past and present, their state bodies and legal institutions in certain historical periods based on the identification and knowledge of their inherent laws. The history of the state and the law of foreign countries - studies the general and special laws of the evolution of the state and the law of foreign countries in a chronological sequence and in specific historical conditions

The object of the history of the state and the law of foreign countries is the entire set of social relations that have developed throughout the history of mankind. The subject of the history of the state and the law of foreign countries is the most general and specific laws of the emergence, development, decline, changes, transformation of foreign states and their law. This makes the subject of the history of the state and law extremely wide, diverse and multifaceted. After all, any story is primarily a story of facts.

It is common knowledge that the concept of "history" has two meanings. Similarly, the history of the state and law has two meanings. On the one hand, this is a state-legal reality that has lasted for thousands of years: politics, legislative acts, the formation of state bodies, their unification and dissolution, judicial practice, legal relations, various circumstances and events that entail legal consequences, and also understanding rights, law as an idea, as features of legal consciousness. All this has already happened, and to a large extent disappeared without a trace (archives, papers, legislative acts, court decisions perished in fires, wars, natural disasters). The history of the state and law in this sense is unchanged. The second understanding is one's own knowledge of the specified events, phenomena and processes, understanding of regularities, science.
